Charges WSB Taking Miners' 'Milk Money'

Washington (AP)—John L. Lewis, rebuffing a plea that he order 327,000 striking soft coal miners back to work, yesterday accused the Wage Stabilization Board of trying to steal "milk money" from miners' children.

This indicated a possibly prolonged strike over the board's decision to slice 40 cents off the $1.90 daily wage increase provided in a contract Lewis recently obtained from the operators. The board held that the increase was in violation of the government's anti-inflation rules.

Replying to the operators' request that he end the walkout, Lewis declared the men would work when they get the full $1.90.

A total of 327,000 of them were idle yesterday, and the coal-carrying railroads began to lay off hundreds of their employees. However, the nation as a whole won't feel the squeeze for some time, since in general the supply of already-mined coal is sufficient to last 10 weeks or so.

The Lewis attack on the WSB came in a letter to Harry M. Moses, president of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, who had made the back-to-work request. Lewis ridiculed wage board Chairman Archibald Cox as a "little Harvard professor" and accused him of "contemptible action."

Lewis said that Cox, three other public members of the board and four industry members whom he called "ruffians" representing the National Association of Manufacturers, formed a "cabal to steal 40 cents a day from each mine worker."

Lewis wrote Moses: "Naturally miners resent such attempted thievery. Miners are people, Mr. Moses. They have children. Children need milk. The 40 cents would buy milk each day. You of all men should know that the mine-workers will fight to protect the milk supply of their families."

Replying to Lewis, Herbert M. Kelley, executive assistant to industry members of the Wage Board said:

"Mr. Lewis has never publicly before acknowledged even the existence of the Wage Stabilization Board. This would seem strange in view of the intimate details, all of them wholly untruthful, which he revealed about the board's membership today."

Lewis was reported to have called his 230-man policy committee to Washington for a strategy session today, but there was no official confirmation.

Tenth Of Federal Revenue Goes To Foreign Aid

Washington, (AP)—The United States has loaned or given over a tenth of its national revenue in the past seven years as foreign aid to friends and former friends.

This was disclosed yesterday in a roundup of foreign aid by the Department of Commerce monthly publication "Current Business." It said net foreign aid from mid-1945 to mid-1952 amounted to $5 billion dollars.

That was 11.3 per cent of the United States' 308 billion dollars federal revenue in the seven years, and 10.6 per cent of national expenditures—329 billion dollars—in that time.

Convict Escapes Through Opening Between Bars

Sunbury (AP)—There is only 5 1/2 inches between the bars in the cell in Northumberland County Prison, but Monday night a slim Shamokin man soaped his body and slipped through to freedom.

Prison officials said they found soap on the bars of the cell's window but didn't find Stanley Pitchuskie. Warden Victor Angeli said the 32-year-old Pitchuskie went through the space between the bars which run cross-wise on the windows.

A prisoner in a neighboring cell, George Bogart of Northumberland, tried a similar break but got stuck. His groans attracted the attention of a guard. It took about 50 minutes, Angeli said, to free Bogart by chiseling away the masonry to shift the steel bar.

President Tells Pottsville Audience Republicans Will Wipe Out Price-Rent Curbs

En Route with Truman, (AP)—President Truman, drawing some of the biggest crowds of his career, blasted Dwight D. Eisenhower across New Jersey and Pennsylvania yesterday in an all-out drive to capture the working man's vote for Adlai Stevenson.

He wound up an exhausting day with a Pottsville, Pa., speech declaring it is a "dead sure cinch" that the Republicans will wipe out all price and rent controls if they get into office in the Nov. 4 election.

Truman was mad, and he frankly acknowledged that Eisenhower was getting under his skin with talk of "Democratic high prices."

He moved into the hard coal country with a free-swinging counter-attack on Republicans in Congress who voted against his controls proposals.

"I won't let them get away with it," he declared in his Pottsville speech.

Chinese Drive South Koreans Off Sniper Ridge Crest In Bitter Close-Range Fighting

Seoul, (AP)—Two Chinese Red battalions today drove South Koreans off the highest point on Sniper Ridge in a battle of bayonets and hand grenades.

South Koreans quickly opened a counterattack seeking to win back the height, Pinpoint Hill, in Central Korea.

The height has been lost and recaptured before by the South Koreans since the Allied limited offensive opened Oct. 14.

The Reds battled to the top of Pinpoint today during their third attack on Sniper Ridge in 12 hours. An earlier report that the South Koreans had beaten off the third assault proved incorrect.

A front-line dispatch said the Reds forced the South Koreans to withdraw from Pinpoint to the slope of Sniper Ridge at 6:10 a.m.

At noon, the South Koreans opened a counterattack with bayonets and grenades. An American officer with the South Koreans said the fighting in mud and fog was the most intense he had ever seen.

At 6:45 last night, a force of Reds variously estimated at from 900 to 1,500 charged up the slippery, muddy slopes on the Central Korean Front but withdrew after an hour's action.

Shortly before last midnight, about 300 Reds renewed the attack in rain and fog. They got close enough for a half-hour of hand-to-hand fighting before pulling back.

During the daybreak assault, one group of Reds infiltrated to the rear of the Republic of Korea Second Division defenders, AP correspondent John Fujii reported.

This group surprised artillery observers and battalion officers watching the hand-to-hand struggle. The observers got out of there quick.

Correspondent Fujii said the Reds didn't even get close to South Korean lines in the first attack last night.

Grammer Murder Trial Nears End

Baltimore (AP)—The Grammer murder trial ended yesterday, except for final arguments Thursday. From there on, the life of George Edward Grammer lies in the hands of Judge Herman M. Moser, hearing the case without a jury at Grammer's request.

Grammer's attorney gave him the choice of taking the stand after Mathilda Mizbrocky told the court she planned to marry Grammer before she learned he had a wife and family. Grammer declined.

The state contended that Grammer killed his 33-year-old wife, Dorothy May, "with malice aforethought" and tried to make her death appear to be an accident so he would be free to marry Miss Mizbrocky, a trim, 28-year-old secretary of the United Nations headquarters in New York.

Route 115 Crash Takes Two Lives

Wilkes-Barre—Two Easton men were killed Monday night when their car skidded and crashed head-on with another machine on Route 115 in Bear Creek Twp., 10 miles southeast of this city.

Sidney H. Rosen, 41, was killed instantly and Clyde C. Ott, also 41, died at the Wilkes-Barre VA Hospital three hours later.

The two men were enroute to this city where Rosen was to seek medical attention when their car and one driven by Willard Whitaker, Moose, collided. Whitaker suffered leg and shoulder fractures and his condition at the Veterans Hospital was pronounced as "serious."

Peace Hinges On Trade, Says Adlai

Chicago (AP)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson declared last night that the answer to world peace "cannot be found in an international giveaway program."

The Democratic presidential nominee, speaking on a nation-wide television and radio program at the inception of a 4,221-mile final campaign swing, said that instead the solution of world trade problems may promise a greater chance for peace.

The Illinois governor said that military force alone will not bring the world to tranquility. Instead, he said the free nations must strike at the "basic roots" of the world's ills.

He defined these as "poverty, ignorance and political instability."

"These are not to be found in any international give-away program," he said. "A great part of the answer lies in trade."

As the father of three sons, he said that he is deeply concerned about the Korean War and world conditions generally.

"I know that war is harder upon women than upon men, that it outrages their profoundest feelings about life, the home, the heart," he declared.

"Who, then, would not be animated by a passion for peace? Who would not want to so order it that mothers shall have their children, wives their husbands, and girls their sweethearts, instead of surrendering them to war?"

"Peace is the end toward which I, like you, would move with all of the strength of mind and body. But peace, in a savagely hostile world, is not to be had just for the asking."

He said Americans must "ask ourselves, where we are, where we want to go, and how we can get there."

Stevenson said Communism has won millions of converts throughout the world.

"It works by force and by guile," he said. "It has found opportunities for deception because the West has not always been true to its own greatness."

"Some people have felt that their plight was so bad that any change would be an improvement. Too late many of them have discovered that a slavery worse than any they have known."

He said this called for an "overriding obligation of leadership."

In an obvious if indirect dig at his GOP presidential opponent, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Stevenson said:

"A position of leadership is not always comfortable. The most distressing aspect of it is that a leader has to think. He can not fulfill his responsibilities if he merely says as one of the men of the French Revolution did, 'The mob is in the street. I must see where they are going, for I am their leader.'"

"We know that we must strike first in this question of peace, at the basic roots of war. That is at poverty, at ignorance, and at political instability. The solution to the problem of poverty is not to be found in an international giveaway program. A great part of the answer is trade, and trade has to be a two-way street."

Two Boys Perish

Philadelphia (AP)—Two brothers were burned to death yesterday despite the rescue efforts of their mother and a neighbor when fire swept through their narrow three-story home. They were Cornell Bell, six, and Michael, three, sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Bell.

Presbytery Approves Purchase Of Property Near Snyder'sville For Retreats, Conferences

A Snyder'sville property overlooking a scenic lake will be the new retreat and conference grounds for the Lehigh Presbytery, which serves 45 area Presbyterian churches with membership of 13,000.

The final decision to purchase the $60,000 tract, including a residence, four cottages, large barn and the lake, was made yesterday at a meeting in Stroudsburg of the Presbytery members. More than 20 churches were represented. The meeting had been called specially to consider the purchase.

The men's council of the Presbytery approved the site Oct. 6 after an inspection of the premises, owned at present by Nathan Abelloff.

At the session yesterday the officers of the Christian Education Committee, the trustees of the Presbytery and the officers of the National Council of Presbyterian Men of the Lehigh Presbytery were authorized to convene to attend to the legal requirements.

National Council members of the Presbytery were also given the go-ahead yesterday for starting a campaign to raise funds toward the purchase.

It was expected that Rev. Ernest T. Campbell of the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church would call this group into meeting shortly.

The property will be used for such purposes as Bible school conferences for young people, and retreat conferences for both young people and adults.

The property is on the backlot road leading from Snyder'sville toward the county home, and is about 200 yards south of Route 209. It contains about 35 acres, including the 3.5-acre lake.

Warren Lauds General Ike

Philadelphia (AP)—Gov. Earl Warren of California said last night the United States needs Dwight D. Eisenhower in the White House as a "leader who knows what the hazards will be to this country if we do not achieve peace."

In a televised and broadcast speech, Gov. Warren said that "there is no man more devoted to peace than Gen. Eisenhower," who has seen war "in all its brutality."

Warren declared that peace can come to the world only by becoming the leadership of this country. "To afford that leadership," Warren said, "we must find the person who is best able to lead. No American living today is capable of giving the leadership Gen. Eisenhower can give to the cause of peace."

Blast Kills Four Persons

Lafayette (AP)—Four persons were killed and one critically injured in a terrific explosion which demolished a small home near here last night.

Details of the explosion could not be learned immediately.

Lafayette hospital officials identified the dead as: Joseph Rogosky, about 60; his wife, Mary, also about 60; Joseph Rogosky Jr., about 25, and John Rogosky, 18.

In critical condition is Mrs. Hazel Rogosky, 25, wife of Joseph Rogosky Jr.

Hospital officials said bodies of the victims were "horribly mutilated."

All available Lafayette fire equipment was sent to the scene.

Lafayette is about 35 miles south-east of Pittsburgh.

Lovett Overrules Order Extending Combat Service

Washington (AP)—Secretary of Defense Lovett said yesterday the Pentagon has overruled an order by the Far East Command extending the period of troops must serve in the line in Korea before becoming eligible for rotation back home.

Lovett told a news conference that the countermanning order was sent Oct. 7 by Secretary of the Army Pace. He said it instructed Gen. Mark Clark to reinstate 36 points as the number required for rotation eligibility. The Far East Command on Sept. 17 raised the eligibility to 38 points.

Lovett explained that the rotation points system is determined monthly by the theater commander and that the basic factor is the number of replacements on hand or on the way.

The secretary said the Far East Command thought it necessary to extend the period of duty before rotation because there had been a temporary falling off of the number of replacements available for service in Korea.

Italian Premier Refuses To Sign Pact With Russia

Rome, (AP)—In a fighting speech before the Chamber of Deputies, Premier Alcide De Gasperi gave a firm "no" last night to the suggestion that Italy make a non-aggression pact with Russia.

The lean-faced Premier reaffirmed Italy's intent to remain solidly united with the North Atlantic pact. He was replying to a suggestion recently made by pro-Communist Socialist Pietro Nenni who this summer had a long conversation with Marshal Stalin at Moscow.

Storm Takes Three Lives

Miami, Fla. (AP)—One of the worst northeast storms in years swept Florida yesterday, sinking three vessels and leaving many others in distress. At least three lives were reported lost.

Winds lashed Atlantic and Gulf waters into dangerous waves and the Weather Bureau urged small craft around the state to exercise extreme caution.

More than four inches of rain fell in one section of the rich farming area around Lake Okeechobee, already saturated with recent rains. The St. Lucie Canal gates were opened to relieve flood conditions.

The Coast Guard said three fishermen apparently drowned when the 69-foot fishing vessel Sea Famer went down off False Cape, near Cape Canaveral on the east coast.

Typhoon Hits Philippines

Manila (AP)—The most violent typhoon of the season struck in full fury against the Southern Coast of the Philippines' main island of Luzon today.

Floods poured over highways and through small towns in Southern Luzon. Wind wrecked communications systems and blacked out several towns.

The storm, with 110-mile-an-hour center winds, was expected to pass within 30 miles of Manila this afternoon.

Americans at U. S. Clark Field Air Base 50 air miles northwest of Manila moved into typhoon shelters shortly after daybreak.

Warmer Weather Expected Today

By The Associated Press

A warmup developed in the central part of the nation yesterday after record breaking cold chilled many cities in the Midwest and East.

The U. S. Weather Bureau in Chicago said the warming trend would bring higher temperatures to most of the Midwest and that the warmer air would spread southeast and east.

The mercury is expected to reach the middle and upper fifties in Pennsylvania this afternoon and the day will be clear.

BULLETIN

Saigon, Indochina, (AP)—A tidal wave today reportedly swept over the Indochinese port of Phantien, 100 miles west of Saigon, Monday night and first reports said several hundred persons were dead or injured.

Radio reports received here today said the town of 20,000 was cut in two by the sea and half of it was covered by more than six feet of water and mud. Several thousand huts were reported destroyed.

Answer HST In Tour Of New England

Boston (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower blasted "godless Communism" yesterday as a terrible danger that must be repulsed and emphasized that his ideas on the Soviets were "not of the Yalta or Potsdam kind."

He gave this backhand slap to the Democratic administration record in addressing a huge crowd on the Common in predominantly Irish-Catholic and anti-Communist Boston.

Eisenhower said his reasons for opposing Communism were not theoretical.

"They are not based just on reading books by Marx and Lenin and Stalin," he said. "They were reinforced by some first-hand experiences with Communism and Communists."

One of the greatest outpourings of his entire campaign roared a welcome to Eisenhower here—a police-estimated throng ranging from 50,000 to 100,000 persons.

Afterward, Eisenhower went on to Cambridge and another large turnout, and to Harvard Square where yelling Harvard students descended on him with such enthusiasm and energy that guards couldn't hold them back.

It gave Eisenhower's security men their first fright of the campaign. However, nothing was feared except the general's ear—which the students stripped of chromium trimmings, presumably for souvenirs.

After a few other Massachusetts stops, including one at Lynn where a large, yelling crowd was almost unmanageable, Eisenhower flew to New York to address the annual Herald Tribune forum last night.

People lined the Boston streets from curbs to storefronts as the Republican presidential candidate waved from an open car during his journey from North Station to Boston Common.

Eisenhower came into this predominantly Irish-Catholic city after angrily charging the Truman administration with falsely accusing him of anti-Catholicism and anti-Semitism.

The crowds along Washington, Tremont and Boylston Streets cheered thunderously as the general drove through their massed ranks. Confetti rained from office buildings.

Eisenhower came into Boston after smaller, but warm receptions in Manchester and Nashua, N. H., and Lowell and Lawrence, Mass.

The Boston crowd broke into Eisenhower's speech with applause time and again. When he said at one point he was not a politician in the common sense, a man yelled:

"That's why we want you."

As he attacked "godless Communism" as a terrible menace that must be repulsed, another man shouted:

"Give America back to the Americans."

Earlier, Eisenhower had campaigned without let-up on the charge that the Truman administration injected religious and racial issues into the presidential campaign to stave off defeat in November.

Traveling through Catholic French-American and Irish-American mill cities, the Republican nominee made it plain he had not accepted President Truman's denial that he ever implied the general was anti-Catholic or anti-Semitic.

Eisenhower told throngs of wildly cheering supporters in Manchester, Nashua and Lowell that the opposition had gone to "fantastic lengths" to spread "scandalous" stories about him.

"What kind of rot is it?" he asked. "How low can you get?"

His audiences broke into deafening applause when he declared that Cardinal Spellman, Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver and Bernard Baruch had "jumped into the breach" to express indignation "at that kind of attack."

Jury Convicts Magistrate

Philadelphia (AP)—A Federal District Court jury yesterday found Philadelphia Magistrate John J. O'Malley guilty of income tax evasion after deliberating for five hours and 45 minutes.

O'Malley was found guilty of evading the payment of about $97,000 income taxes for the year of 1946.

Mackintosh, 57, Succumbs In Montreal

Stuart J. Mackintosh, 57, of Montreal, Canada, whose parents built and resided in what was known as the Mackintosh place, near the Glen Brook Country Club, died Oct. 14 at the Western Division of the General Hospital, that city.

The Mackintosh home, an extension of Dreher Ave. was recognized as one of the outstanding show places in the suburb of Stroudsburg. Taken over by the Residential Investment Corp., it is being remodeled in an attractive manner.

Mr. Mackintosh, who was general manager for the Singer Sewing Machine Co., Montreal, was born in New York City and served in the US Army in World War One and later entered the service of the Singer Co., having been stationed New York, Philadelphia and Seattle, Wash., before being transferred to Montreal.

He was a member of the Montreal American Legion post and Board of Trade, St. Andrew's Society, Rotary Club and several country clubs.

His survivors are his wife, son, Lt. J. R. Mackintosh, US Army, and daughter, Mrs. Douglas Whiting, Montreal.

Funeral services were held Friday, Oct. 17 with interment at Mount Royal cemetery, Montreal.

Henryville Native Dies

Mr. Morris, N. Y. — Mrs. Electa J. Osborne, 81, wife of David Osborne, died Sept. 27 at her home, 3 N. Main St., this place, after a long illness.

Mrs. Osborne was a native of Henryville, Monroe County, Pa., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dimmick D. Delrick. Mr. and Mrs. Osborne were married in Camden, N. J., and moved here shortly thereafter. They celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary last year.

Mr. Osborne, 88, was a conductor on the Wilkes-Barre and Easton Railroad, Stroudsburg, for many years and later on the Eschawanna Railroad at this place, retiring Aug. 8, 1938.

Survivors besides her husband, are a son, Harvey, of Liberty, Pa.; three daughters, Mrs. Edith Thomas of Astoria, L. I.; Mrs. Florence Hanson, of Union, and Mrs. Mae Resicker, of Buffalo, N. Y.; an aunt, Mrs. Amanda Arnold, of East Stroudsburg, Pa.; 26 grandchildren and 28 great grandchildren.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery, Buffalo, N. Y.

Large Numbers Return For Koeke Chapel Homecoming Cemetery Fund Meets Goal

Paradise Valley—Scores of former parishioners and present members of the congregation converged on Koeke Evangelical United Brethren Chapel here Sunday to participate in the sixth annual homecoming festival.

Filling the main sanctuary, the parishioners arrived as early as 1 p. m. for the 2:30 p. m. service and parking space was made available in the undeveloped cemetery land.

Offering, earmarked for the cemetery care, also was termed successful, with the goal attained.

Warren Godshalk directed congregational singing to open the program and the Rev. C. F. Spangenberg, pastor, led devotions. Levan Flory offered the welcome address and presented gifts to the following persons:

Mr. and Mrs. H. Masow, of Nottingham, Pa., for traveling the greatest distance; Mrs. Angie Besecker, of this place, oldest chapel member present; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crowl and child, of Oxford, for the youngest child present; Mrs. Anna Deerden, 86, of Scranton, oldest person present; Rev. R. R. Hunsberger, pastor of Milford circuit and Koeke Chapel pastor from 1934 to 1938, delivered the sermon "The Old Paths." His daughter, Maryella Hunsberger served as pianist in the absence of Mrs. Edwin Besecker who was unable to attend due to illness.

Pocono Union Church choir, directed by Mrs. Arthur Post as pianist, sang the anthem. A vocal solo was contributed by Mrs. Arlene Nauman Hay, accompanied by Mrs. Everett King. Historical incidents were recalled by Mrs. Stella Granacher and Mrs. George P. Koerner offered a vocal solo, accompanied by Mrs. King.

Following a report of the cemetery project by Mr. Flory, the congregation paid tribute to George A. Koerner, meditating during the tolling of 20 strokes of the church bell.

A duet by Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Young contributed to the program. It also was announced the Pocono Union Church will hold home coming service at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

Among the notes of interest pointed out to visitors were the picture of Koeke Monroe, daughter of Mary Monroe, in whose memory the chapel was erected; pulpit Bible, a gift in honor of the 101st birthday of Mrs. Sarah Knoll; the cornerstone dated 1838; tombstone of George P. Dornblaser, who donated the church ground and cathedral glass windows and other points around the church.

In retracing the history of the chapel Rev. Spangenberg noted that Jacob Albright, a self-styled preacher, instituted the church in 1796 among German immigrants. And 11 years later the name "The Newly Formed Methodists" was adopted by Albright and his followers.

Two years later another name was given the church "Albright People" and in 1816 the society

Postmasters At Convention

Monroe County was represented at the national convention of postmasters in Boston last week by Norman Gregory, of East Stroudsburg and P. D. Frankenfield, of Tobyhanna.

The local postmasters were accompanied by their wives to the New England city where 5,600 postmasters convened. Pennsylvania had the largest delegation. The couples also traveled throughout the New England states, returning home over the weekend.

Wilbur Warner, Lehighton postmaster, delivered the response to addresses by Boston's mayor and Massachusetts' Governor Devers.

County PSEA Committee Heads Chosen

The executive committee of the Monroe County PSEA at a meeting yesterday afternoon at the office of the county superintendent of schools, named committee chairmen to serve during the coming year. Harold Lee, East Stroudsburg High School, the president, was in charge.

The committee chairmen named follow: Public relations, Clarence Transue, Clearview Consolidated School; Program, Elwood Arndt, Pocono Twp. High, chairman, also Robert Burrows, Tobyhanna Twp., and Mrs. Cornelia May, Smithfield Consolidated school.

Social, Richard DeHaven, Pocono Twp. High; ethics, W. Bernard Roan, Barrett Twp. High; legislative, Ralph O. Burrows, East Stroudsburg High, and welfare, Lester W. Dimmick, East Stroudsburg High.

The committee decided to continue the policy of holding four meetings a year. The first was held last month in connection with the County Teachers Institute.

The next meeting will be held at Pocono Township High School the night of Nov. 18. At that time reports will be presented of various group meetings and there will also be a social period provided.

Thursday, March 19, is the date for the third session, place to be selected, and the final meeting will be in the form of the annual banquet May 18, place to be announced. A prominent speaker will be secured for that event.

Others in attendance at yesterday's meeting in addition to those mentioned above were: Harold Kramer, East Stroudsburg High; Alfred Ravelli, Barrett, and Donald Wismer, Coolbaugh Twp.; also John C. Litts, county superintendent of schools, and Walter H. Sebring, assistant county superintendent.

It shows the light sprinkling of snow on the ground under the nursery trees. There's only one difference between snow above and snow which fell in the nursery Monday (Oct. 20)—and that is a dozen years. Wagner snapped this scene Oct. 20, 1940.

Junior Choir Makes Debut At Services

Pocono Lake — The junior choir made its initial appearance here Sunday morning, singing in Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church during the worship service. Mrs. Frederick Harold Jr. is director. Members include Mary Lou Wilson, Diane Judge, Gloria and Donia Fischer, Caroline Altomose, Dianne Avery, Mary Harold and Terry Altomose.

Rev. William Foose, supply pastor, delivered the sermon "The Living Church."

In the afternoon a meeting of the church membership class was held at Swiftwater. Rev. Foose invited local parishioners to participate in the meeting this Sunday. Bulletins were sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Otto Fischer in honor of their 30th wedding anniversary, observed Oct. 14.

Time Off to Vote

Election time always brings up scores of plans—some new, some old—designed to get more voters to the polls.

Most of us agree that more citizens should stir their stumps and take advantage of an opportunity which, if denied, would cause them to howl in protest.

Some, undoubtedly, are too lazy to take the trouble to cast their ballots. Some just don't care.

A few countries have tried to correct that situation by requiring all eligible citizens to vote or pay a fine. Such a law works all right so far as getting out the vote is concerned. But whether it insures intelligent voting is something else.

Other nations vote on Sundays, or make election day a national holiday. In most instances, this plan brings out a larger percentage of voters than we can count on in the United States.

Voters in 24 of our states can take time off legally from their jobs to cast their ballots. Thirteen states, including our neighbor, West Virginia, require the employer to pay his workers for the time off which the law allows them to take to do their civic duty.

Pennsylvania has no legal provision for requiring the payment of wages for those who come in late or leave work early to vote.

More and more companies in this state are doing the patriotic thing by permitting their employees time off to go to the polls. And most workers, we believe, are interested enough in presidential elections to vote on their own time.

We doubt that Pennsylvania needs a law which, in effect, would pay employees to vote.

Alaskan Standoff

The elections in Alaska, three weeks before those in the

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Nashville, Tenn., is Tennessee's of the Nation's Southland beats faster with each visit of the Republican presidential candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower, or his running mate, Senator Richard Nixon.

Here, for instance, it is more than just wanting to get a look at two National political faces searching for something—and a lot of practical politicians would be very happy if they knew just what.

There is a great upsurge of emotion straining to go somewhere. More Tennessee voters are crowding around political candidates than ever before; more Tennessee Democrats are admitting they will vote for the GOP than ever before; and more Republicans are spending time and money, working to win, than ever before.

Nobody knows—and nobody will know until November 5—exactly what the stir in the South amounts to. But there is a great searching for the answers to Tennessee citizens.

For instance, you are asked: "Will Gen. Eisenhower be able to end the Korean war?" "Is Governor Stevenson just another Truman?" "What are they going to do in Texas?" "Will South Carolina follow the lead of Governor Byrnes?"

Mostly, in Tennessee, however, they want to know what sort of man is Gen. Eisenhower. They seem to know Governor Stevenson, or at least to understand him. They have little use for Senator Sparkman. A general respect for Senator Nixon, that is tempered with the understanding that he has a lot to learn, politically and otherwise.

Over it all is a vast distaste for any more of President Truman. He is a Democrat who has confused most of his party, betrayed some of it and mocked the rest of it. That wraps up the Tennessee consensus of the current President of the United States. And nobody is going to un-wrap it.

In many ways, political at least, Tennessee is the fork in the road in the South. It can happen here. Tennessee voted Republican for President Harding, and the citizens have a lot more to be sure about now than they did then. But this is traditionally Democrat in most of the State.

Nevertheless nobody in Tennessee, in 1948, was asking if Governor Thomas E. Dewey could end a war anywhere; nobody was asking why China was conquered by Russia or who is responsible for our sinning behavior in Europe.

Nobody asked then why the U.S. sends out unarmed aircraft for Soviet union target practice; nobody wondered when captive Americans in Communist prisons would be ransomed, and for how much.

Now, in Tennessee, they are asking. They are deadly serious in purpose and excited in anticipation of receiving an answer. They do not want the Governor of Illinois to laugh off their questions; nor the Republican candidate for the Presidency to duck the answers. They are anxious and eager for new leadership. The candidate who convinces them he can provide it will get their votes—a vast majority of them—whether he is Democrat or Republican.

Old hands in Tennessee politics admit they have never experienced the political unrest that exists today. They are not predicting anyone's victory, however.

In fact, their instincts force them to confess that the result may well be just what it is four years ago.

Most of them say, however, that here and elsewhere in the South there is a vast political audience waiting to be led, that so far no one but Eisenhower has come close to doing it.

Tennessee is only a ballot box away from history, and knows it. But that is a step the voters have not, as yet, been persuaded to take. If they do not it will be a failure of Gen. Eisenhower's, and not a defeat for what the Republican party stands for.

These Days - - By George E. Sokolsky

It's Time For A Change

One of the by-products of the present campaign is the variety of suggestions for changing our system of nomination and election. The proposals represent a normal reaction to a system which has become outmoded by the increase of population in the large cities and by radio and television.

The critics of the present methods of nomination and election usually disregard two factors which are of very great importance:

1. That the nomination of a candidate is strictly a party matter in which the general public can have no voice, if the two-party system is to continue;

2. That elections are, by the Constitution, within the province of each State, to be conducted by each State by whatever method the State chooses.

Any proposal for a change therefore has to take in these restrictions. Two-party system is a valuable institution because by this means dictatorship and tyranny are prevented and the dangers from demagoguery are supposed to be limited. Were there no two-party system, President Truman could have remained in office until he was removed by revolution, as is the practice in countries where a dictatorship is usual; or, he could appoint his successor, as Stalin is doing in Soviet Russia.

The heart of the two-party system is the selection of a candidate by a party convention, the delegates to which are chosen by partisans in each State, according to local rules. The employment of a national primary, which has been suggested, would place a limitation upon the rights of the States. It would be tantamount to holding two elections. As a matter of fact, the primary is already too costly to candidates.

Television has, in many respects, made the party convention appear to be ridiculous. The desire of some delegates to ask for a roll-call so that they can be made visible to the home folks has proved so wasteful of time and has focused attention on the poor quality of the delegations. Unless the secret ballot on voting machines is instituted in the convention, the people will lose confidence in the method altogether.

Another suggestion that has recently been advocated is permanent registration and the two-day election. Permanent registration actually exists in many places. I have now registered and voted in the same election district for 14 years. Each time, I have answered the same questions to the same clerks. This year I waited one hour on line to answer those same questions.

As to two-day voting, that would be useful in the big cities. In some States, the idea is bound to be rejected as unsuited to the circumstances of the place and the people. For instance, in the township of Sandisfield in Massachusetts, where I also live, there are only 300 families. The voting can be done in a few hours. Much of America is like that.

In the big cities, voting is becoming a real hardship because of the delay. A two-day election could be useful, if so devised that the ballots could be cast swiftly and that voters did not postpone their participation to the last moment of the second day.

On the other hand, there would have to be a universal agreement among the election officials of the 48 States, among newspapers and the radio, that no results would be published until the polls had finally been closed in every part of the country. It would be wrong to permit the first day's vote to influence the second day's vote.

Unfortunately there are many who still believe that they like to vote for the winner, which is to stultify the election to a horse race. Such people would be influenced by premature results. Even without two-day voting, it would be preferable if results were announced two or three days after election day, but that idea will not prove popular. The people want to know the results. In the big cities, the two-day vote would only be practical if a moratorium were declared on election news for the two-day period. Otherwise, the news itself would become a device of electioneering.

Surely, our elections are too complex and too expensive. When this one is over, little thought will be given to this subject until 1956. Yet, something serious ought to be done to reform nominations and elections before then.

Try And Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

"Fibber" McGee's houseboy interrupted him at dinner to swear he had just seen a huge flying saucer sailing through the sky. "Flying saucer!" scoffed McGee. "That hoax was exposed long ago. Surely you can't still believe in a flying saucer at this late date!" The houseboy answered him earnestly, "Mr. McGee, if I didn't believe it, I wouldn't have seen it!"

Lord Joseph Duveen's powers of persuasion reached all the way from selling art masterpieces to well-heeled collectors for half a million dollars and up, to hypnotizing children into doing his bidding. One day at the seaside, Duveen's young daughter refused to dive into the briny; it was much too cold, she declared. Lord Duveen gravely gathered some sticks on the beach, started a bonfire, borrowed a kettle, boiled some water in it, and then poured it into the Atlantic Ocean. Completely satisfied, his daughter dove in without the slightest hesitation.

The Once Over

Letters For Special Delivery

Dear Adlai:

This is a fairly open Presidential race and anybody can win it, but you can lose my vote, with that recent line, "We Americans have been tapped by Fate, for which we should forever give thanks. What a day to live in! What a flowering of the work and faith of our fathers! Who would want America less responsible for the world future? Isn't this what we have always dreamed?" (I don't dig it, Adlai, and if I vote for you I will make a note on the back of the ballot, "But no thanks for the tap, huh?"). Tapped, you say? Who, me? That was no tap I have been feeling. It was a sock, a swing from the floor. I have never been groggy than today.

"What a day to live in!" you say. What day are you looking at, bub. It can't be the same day I am in. So you like it! You are crazy about headaches, fresh problems baked every hour, production-line worries, eggs at a dime a piece, the demitasse beer

"the dullest suit ever made"—which 20th Century-Fox had made for him to wear in "Half Angel." Jim bought it for $80—and he's stuck with it. "Whenever they're in doubt they say, 'Put on that suit, the dull suit with the knit tie.'"

He wore it in "Bright Victory," in which he cheered sightless Arthur Kennedy on to new hope. He wore it in an unreleased Jean Simmons film in which he plays a salaried public prosecutor. Leon Ames, as the well-heeled defense attorney, got to wear a neon-stripe suit and an indiscreet tie.

Backus also wears his sincere suit in his new TV-film series with Joan Davis, "I Married Joan," in which he plays a judge. He enjoyed getting out of it, as a Roman soldier, in "Androcles and the Lion." And as Gen. Curtis LeMay in another film. He so resembles the Air Force officer that a director whose set he was visiting, in his uniform with ribbons, invited him out for a drink and dinner.

Backus, a freelance actor, has four or five months a year off from his TV-film work. He'll seek movie roles as a heavy or comic. Something that will let him leave his sincere suit in the closet.

Backus is doomed to being a nice guy on the screen. Usually he's the hero's friend. He thinks it's because his chubby, heavy-browed face is naturally sad-looking. Sad, trustworthy and sympathetic. "Like a cow," Jim brooded. "At a party the hostess will come around and say 'what's the matter?' when all the time I'm having a ball."

"I'm the hardest kind of part in the world to play is a straight part," Backus continued. "One where you're sincere and sweet. I've been in 25 pictures, and I've never had one emotion except, 'Gee, that's great!'"

"We guys"—players of straight parts—"are the unsung heroes of pictures."

Backus even has a sort of uniform for his characterization of the sympathetic friend. It's a dark-slate, double-breasted suit—states, have in recent years forecast the national trends with remarkable accuracy.

"Happy Birthday, Dad! The checkbook is from Mom—but WE gave you the fountain pen!"

Last Tuesday, Alaska voted again, but failed to give the dopesters much to go on. The Republicans made their best showing in many years, and apparently will control both Houses of the next Legislature, but they lost the head of their ticket—the candidate for delegate to Congress. (Alaska's governor is appointed by the President.)

The result is at least a warning that neither party has reason to be very confident of victory in the main event next month. At the same time it shows that the Alaskans have thoroughly mastered the good old American art of ticket-splitting.

The Coal Case

In whittling down the wage increase on which John L. Lewis and the coal industry had agreed, the Wage Stabilization Board said:

"A wage stabilization program under which an excuse was found for approving every increase requested by a powerful group would be a fraud."

That's sound doctrine which not even the eloquence of Mr. Lewis could refute.

But it was exactly this doctrine which the Wage Board violated in the steel case last summer.

If the Wage Board is now showing courage and a devotion to the "democratic principle of equality" which it cites in the coal decision, it is a sharp contrast to the conduct of the preceding board and Mr. Truman in the steel case.

And if the Truman administration now finds itself in something of a political pickle, with a coal strike on its hands—plus the bitter resentment of the miners—on the eve of an election it is a pickle dilled by Mr. Truman in the steel case.

of TACFCE executive committee. Other Post staffers (several are ex-commies and ex-Red-fronters) also belong to this organization. End of coincidence.

The New York Post has described

The American Committee for Cultural Freedom as "an anti-Red group." . . . However, not all of its members have always been very

American, cultural or anti-Communist. The organization's chairman, George S. Counts, has been on the Board of Directors of an outfit called "The American-Russian

Institute for Cultural Relations

With the Soviet Union." Was there anything American or Cultural about this group? . . .

Nyet!

The California Committee on

Un-American Activities in 1948

described the American-Russian

Institute for Cultural Relations with the Soviet Union. "A direct agent of the Soviet Union engaged in traitorous activities under the orders of Stalin's consular service in the United States."

The same group was cited (in 1938) by the Massachusetts House

Committee on Un-American Activities

as "a Communist organization supported by 'intellectuals.'"

The outfit is also included in the list of subversive organizations issued by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Such Americanism! Such culture!

Back in 1935 Dr. George S.

Counts signed a statement opposing United States military aid to Nationalist China and demanded the United States cease helping the Chinese who were fighting

Mao's Communist armies. . . .

Other signers of the statement included Communist Mike Gold and Communist Earl Browder.

That is the record of George S.

Committee for Cultural Freedom—now running for the Senate with the rabid support of the N. Y. Post. Obviously, some so-called intellectuals are not very intelligent. Dr. Counts—have a

Has Counts mentioned this record in his campaign speeches? Has the New York Post published his record? Don't be so stoopid.

Flynn Sounds Challenge To Resort Bureau

Shawnee-on-Delaware — The resort industry has grown up only in the last several years to a major industry with both major market and major competition, and as such requires major expenditures to acquire business and a vast amount of public relations.

These facts were presented to members of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau here last night at a meeting called to develop a study for budget allowances for advertising and publicity during the next season.

Edmund L. Flynn, former manager of the Penn-Stroud Hotel, now owner-operator of the Fort Bedford Inn and Bedford City Motel, addressed the regional operators as president of the Pennsylvania Hotel Association.

Mr. Flynn, conceding that money for advertising and promotion is an absolute essential, called for development by the individual operator and operators as a unit in Pennsylvania of the public relations theme.

The state association president said the Poconos have done something advertising-wise, but have merely scratched the surface.

Mr. Flynn's insistence on utilization of public relations began with sound employee-relations and moved to a "crusade" action on the part of operators throughout the state to see that the health, enjoyment and pleasure of people utilizing their facilities is paramount.

Advertising as a creative force—better still as a cooperative force with all units joining in the project—has the greater impact, Mr. Flynn said.

He cited the terrific results gained by the coffee, cigarette and other industries with their cooperative advertising.

Mr. Flynn called for every operator and every individual who benefits from travel and resort business to join in a drive to raise Pennsylvania's allocation of $175,000 for advertising to a sum not less than $1,000,000.

Intelligent public relations, however, is a very much overlooked essential to the resort industry, he maintained.

Mr. Flynn was introduced by Gerald P. O'Neill, owner of the Penn-Stroud Hotel—an uncle of the state hotel association president.

Jack Shinn, president of the Vacation Bureau, first presented Harry Landis, member of the advertising agency firm which has handled the Vacation Bureau advertising agency for several months.

It was Mr. Landis who said the resort industry has "come of age in the last seven years." For the future he offered these facts:

The year 1953 will be one of the greatest. There will be 40 million wage earners with vacation pay. Some $9 billions will be spent on vacations. Most popular area for vacations is Middle Atlantic States and the vast majority of business for this region has a very accessible market involving one-third of the nation's population.

Landis cited these advertising expenditures by other regions for a single year: Bermuda $360,000; Nassau $629,000; Miami $1,195,000; Miami Beach $150,000; Florida state $435,000 to better than $1.1 million not including $1 million by airlines, railroads, etc. on Florida vacations.

European vacations are not a threat, he said. The future number of cars will jump from 40 to 65 millions; jobs up 79 millions with high pay and a probable 30 to 34-hour work week.

"Then, instead of being a major industry, the resort business will

Closed Conference Marks Opening Of Hearing On Appeal From County Audit

Hearing on a taxpayers' appeal from the 1951 Monroe County audit began in court yesterday and promptly adjourned to judge's chambers for a closed two-hour conference.

The hearing started before Judge James C. McCready of Wayne County. President Judge Fred W. Davis has disqualified himself from hearing the case.

Nurses Map C. D. Medical Aid Program

The first meeting of nurses for Civil Defense resulted in the framework of an organization to give medical aid in case of emergency or attack.

The meeting was held at the courthouse with CD Director Fred W. Davis presiding.

Before the session was over, under the guidance of Miss Ada Banks, director of CD nursing in Monroe, plans for five first aid stations, one in each CD zone, were laid.

Preliminary plans call for stations at Tannersville, Brodheads-ville, Pocono Pines, Barrett Township School near Canadensis, and at Marshall's Creek.

Members of the county's nursing corps will be assigned to the stations in event of emergency.

Speaker for last night's meeting was Miss Dolores H. Forman, member the Pennsylvania State Nurses Association from Harrisburg, who spoke on the responsibility of nurses in atomic disasters.

She described the preparations which must be made for the care of large numbers of people, and described the injuries to expect—largely fractures, burns, wounds and radiation sickness. She also outlined present methods of treatment in these instances.

Director Davis also addressed the group.

be fabulous," he emphasized.

Landis insisted that promotion must become aggressive, "to meet the major competition in a fast-growing major industry.

Mr. Shinn introduced Merle C. Ostrom, president of Chamber of Commerce.

John Stubblefield, manager of Shawnee Inn was complimented on the excellent dinner and service and arrangements for entertainment of the bureau members.

Freak Mishap Injures Man At Canadensis

Canadensis—A car here yesterday hit a wheelbarrow which hit a pipe which hit a highway worker who wound up at the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg.

The injured man was Walter Hewlings, 30, of this village, who was helping to install a section of galvanized drain pipe on Route 390 here at 1:15 p.m., just north of the Route 290 intersection.

Mount Pocono State police said the car of Wallace A. Hay, 32, Canadensis carpenter, was moving toward Cresco from Skytop.

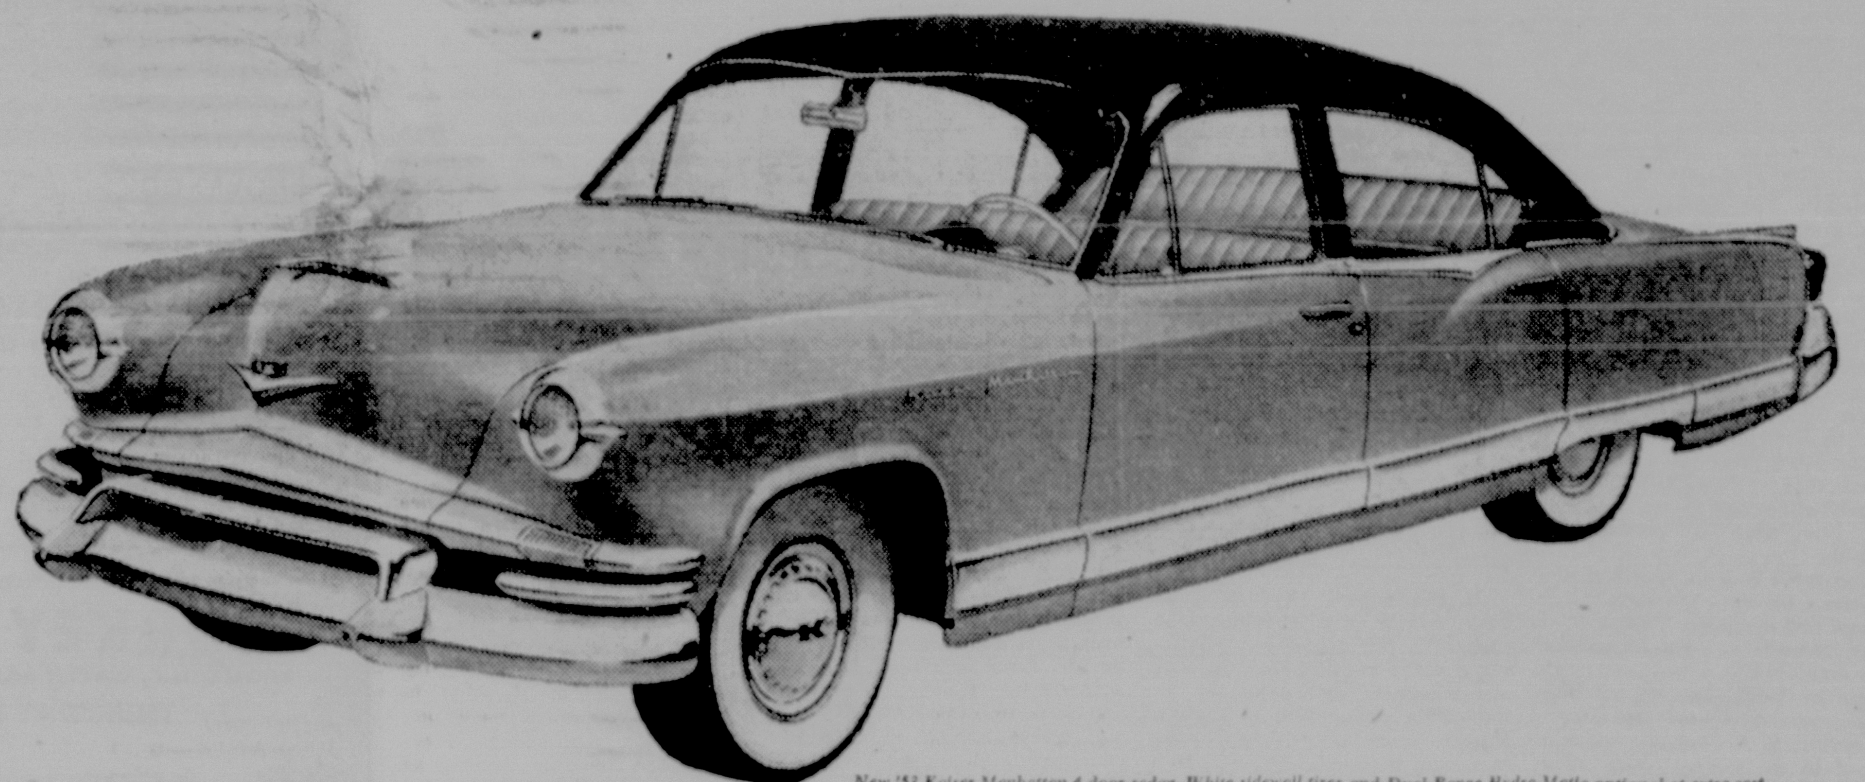

The vehicle struck the wheelbarrow with the red flag attached to it which the highway workers were using as a barricade. The wheelbarrow in turn struck a pipe.

Hewlings had been standing with one foot in the foot-deep hole in the highway, the other on the pavement. He jumped out soon enough to avoid being struck by the car, but the pipe hit him. He is under treatment for possible fractures of the left ankle and pelvis.

Kresgeville—Junior class of Polk Township High School will sponsor a dance and cakewalk in the school Friday night, Oct. 24. Music will be furnished by the Green Boys orchestra.

THIS WAS THE SCENE Monday night when flames destroyed a porch on the Stanley Kupice house at Fabel's Flats, Stroud Township, and damaged most of the remaining portion of the house. Cause of the fire was undetermined yesterday. Kupice used the house occasionally but no one was living in it at the time of the fire. (Daily Record photo)

Only two accident cases were treated Monday in the dispensary at Monroe County General Hospital East Stroudsburg.

Richard Staples, 27, of East Stroudsburg RD3, suffered severe contusions and a crushing injury of the left foot when a heavy load of steel dropped on his foot while working at Tru-Matic Machine Co.

The other patient was Jimmy Shellenberger, 18, of Delaware Water Gap, who dislocated his thumb in a fall on wet leaves.

When cold applications are placed on a bruise, the blood vessels are contracted and swelling and internal bleeding reduced.

Kavanaugh-Osborne Wedding

Newfoundland—The Moravian church was the scene Saturday of an early Fall wedding when Miss Betty Jean Osborne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Osborne, South Sterling, became the bride of Vincent E. Kavanaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kavanaugh, Pottersville, N. J.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Frederick A. Fulmer, pastor of the church, in the presence of many relatives and friends.

The altar was decorated with white gladioli and white pom-poms. Suitable nuptial music was played by Miss Charlotte Roback, church organist, and Miss Alice Bird, vocalist, was heard in the numbers "Oh, Promise Me," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of candlelight satin and imported Chantilly lace with full cathedral train. A two-tiered veil of candlelight imported silk illusion lace cascaded from a lacy cap of satin and tulle edged with seed pearls. The bride carried a fan of white pom-poms with a double orchid center.

Mrs. Lois Robertson, Bedminster, N. J., was matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of mint green nylon tulle and satin with a matching coronet. She carried bronze and yellow pom-poms.

The bridesmaids were Miss Audrey Patterson, of Dunmore, and Miss Barbara Giffin, of Newfoundland. They were attired in floor-length gowns of shrimp nylon tulle and satin with full skirts. They wore matching coronets and carried bronze and yellow pom-poms.

Junior bridesmaids were Jean Ann Lupcho and Kay Lorraine Roback, who were attired in dresses of mint green and shrimp tulle over taffeta and carried nosegays of bronze and yellow pom-poms.

Nancy Wortman, Pottersville, N. J., and Elizabeth Giffin, Sterling, were flower girls. They wore dresses of yellow and mint green tulle over taffeta and carried nosegays of pom-poms similar to the bridesmaids.

Richard Vorhees, uncle of the bridegroom, acted as best man. Steve Sullivan, Gladstone, N. J., and Paul Bellocchio, North Branch, N. J., were the ushers.

The bride's mother wore a dress of aqua crepe with black accessories and a corsage of yellow pom-poms. The mother of the bridegroom was attired in a beige fall dress and wore black accessories and a corsage of pink pom-poms.

The reception was held at the IOOF hall, South Sterling, after which the couple left on a wedding trip through the South. Upon their return they will reside in Bedminster, N. J.

For going away the bride wore a suit of grey English wool with matching hat and green accessories. She wore a corsage of orchids.

The bride is a graduate of the Greene-Dreher-Sterling High School and the Moses-Taylor Hospital School of Nursing. She was employed as a medical technician in Bedminster, N. J. The bridegroom attended the Boardmanville, N. J., High School and served in the armed forces as a military policeman. He is presently chief of police of Bedminster Township, N. J.

Bridal Shower Is Held At Mader Home

Swiftwater—Miss Alberta Seese of Canadensis, was the guest of honor at a surprise bridal shower given by Miss Gloria Mader, of Woodland Road on Thursday night.

The gifts had been arranged at the ends of crepepaper streamers falling from an umbrella decorated with pink, blue and white crepepaper trimmings. After the guest of honor had opened her gifts, the gift wrapping were tied together and passed around the ring to forecast the next bride in the group.

Miss Alvasta Nauman conducted the entertainment which included games, dancing and singing. Prize winners were Miss Youndale Price and Miss Mary Bender.

At refreshment time, Miss Gail Young played a few bars of the wedding march as the guest of honor led the procession to the table. Miss Mader, who will be maid-of-honor, offered a toast to the bride to be. Refreshments included salad, cocktail crackers, nuts, mints, punch and a three-tier cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Sending gifts but unable to attend were Miss Elaine Costa and Miss Martha Ann Brush. There were also gifts from other friends and relatives.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

If the school children could have heard the cackling, the ricketing, the giggling, the singing and the talking their parents and teachers were doing at the state PTA convention at Pocono Manor yesterday, they would have been shocked.

Of course if you'd crowd 750 men and women in one little corridor waiting for dinner after they've been stimulated by workshop sessions dear to their PTA hearts, you're bound to have a giggle and a gabble.

Our local PTA stalwarts were doing all sorts of errand-running and trouble-shooting and general hounding-the-fort, and I wonder when they ate. Most of them were grabbing a sandwich at the grill at noon.

Could have done a little trouble-shooting myself guarding the seraphim, record books and press books which overzealous chairmen were trying to put before the attention of the judges.

However, the judges will be on the receiving end of the firing squad when the decisions are announced today. I'm staying far, far away, and I'd advise Andy Lewis and Right Jones to do the same.

There were so many good offerings that the losers will be out for blood. And I'll be out of a happy home if I don't even see my family today. How our local delegates are managing three days of it I don't think.

Benefit Thursday

Canadensis — The Altar and Rosary Society of St. Ann's Church here will sponsor a benefit card party at Hillside Lodge tomorrow night beginning at 7:30.

8 et 40 Installation

The 8 et 40 will meet Thursday night at the Legion Home in East Stroudsburg. The meeting will mark the installation of newly-elected and appointed officers. All partners are requested to wear white.

Benefit Planned By Mt. Pocono Altar Society

Plans for a game party on the night of Oct. 24 in the social hall of St. Mary's Church and election of officers for the year were the principal items of business taking place at a meeting of the Altar and Rosary Society, held recently in the church hall.

Mrs. Peggy VanRoosendaal presided and was also reelected president of the group, with Mrs. Nettie McCarthy named as secretary and Mrs. Ruth Grady as treasurer.

Miss Mabel Storm reported that she had realized enough from a project which she had sponsored for the society, to furnish the church kitchen which has recently been renovated.

Various chairmen for the game party were appointed and will include: prizes—Mrs. Helen Hines, Mrs. Yvonne Regan and Mrs. Estelle Sutton; tickets—Mrs. Lottie McGill and Miss Storm; and refreshments—Mrs. A. Salerni, Mrs. Paul DeSanto and Mrs. Maniari.

Mrs. Yvonne Regan was named to be in charge of sending Christmas cards to the service men as a thoughtful recognition from the society.

Rev. Vincent Harrity and Rev. Galligan, the group's new moderator were present and the former spoke briefly.

Following the meeting, Miss Mabel Storm and her committee served refreshments to the 26 attending.

Jr. Fellowship Plans For Party, Worship Service

Delaware Water Gap — The social committee of Junior Youth Fellowship met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Buzzard to plan for the Halloween social. The committee is Carol Snyder, Eleanor Kulp and Camille Buzzard.

The worship committee will meet at the Buzzard home Wednesday at 7 p. m. to plan for the next worship service. This committee is Elizabeth Redzig, Marieanne Deake, and Sandra Carlton. This worship service will not be next Sunday night because that night will be given to Reformation Sunday meetings. The Junior worship service will be held at the Buzzard home the following Wednesday, October 29 at 6:45 p. m.

After that service the group will go to Shawnee at 7:30 to see the missionary pageant.

When there's an electric train whizzing around a little track in the heart of the store, no one needs a two-foot high reproduction of Santa to remind him that Christmas is cuddlin' close. Somehow a miniature train can always reduce me to size, and set me whirling away to far off places. Mabel Hufsmith and Pete Wyckoff feel the same way no doubt, and it's my personal opinion that they shouldn't even be paid for yesterday. They were having too much fun with fire engines, Poosh-n-Ups, dolls, doll houses and bathinets. THEY called it work—but they had a grin a yard wide every time they opened a new box . . . Speaking of the two-foot high Santa, reminds me that this venerable gentleman is now on sale—at fifty cents—in our stationery department. Just the thing for holiday decorating, he's also my idea of the guy I'd most like to spend Christmas with . . . Edna Harman relinquished part of her vacation to talk with a jewelry salesman yesterday. And what a line he had! Heraldic aluminum emblems, large as a full moon — THAT kind of a line, I mean. Edna also looked over the new shipment of handsome, hand-crafted copper, each piece of which is signed by Gret Barkin, its designer. Right now there is a wonderful assortment, so, if you are Christmas-minded, why not make your purchases today, using the Will Call plan if necessary. For a difficult lady on my list, I am having a pin and earrings held. Pins are priced from $2 to $6; necklaces, with gorgeous heavy chains and intricate pendants, are in the neighborhood of $12.50, $14.50, and $17.50, and earrings range from $2.50 to $6. The minute they're put on display, they're going—going! The minute I take a look, I'm GONE! . . . A nice surprise yesterday afternoon, was the visit from Selma Ruster, who is enjoying her partial retirement to the hills. Smart she looked too, in a gray suit and furs—and delightfully rested. . . . Mae Coffman advises me to advise YOU to keep your eye on the "reduced" table in the curtain department. She figures that YOUR figure might be interested in (and interesting in) one of the nylon girdles of famous make which originally sold at $10 and are now ticketed $7.50 and in the bras and other under-cover garments that are being marked way below value . . . "Drifting and Dreaming"—that's my theme song every time I edge over to the jewelry department and take a look at that w-i-d-e cuff bracelet of silver, set with carnelian, and its enormous matching earrings. The Napier name which is the synonym for "good" is engraved on the under side of each piece. "It's just the thing for someone tall like you," Betty LaBarre enthuses—adding, "If you have $17.50 plus $12.50, plus tax." I haven't. But I'm still tall. And I'm still dreaming . . . It's good to see Maude Walton back in our military department, and receive a cherry note from Margaret Oldford. Also to meet Jeboah Jane, seven weeks old daughter of Jimmy Rine, formerly of Sears and now of Uncle Sam's Army. The baby has a very fine great-aunt in Kathryn Long, of our contingent staff. (Now located in HOSE who?)

Save Room With New Equipment

Although some of the new homes are being built without basements these days, the problem of whether to have a basement or not is one for individual family decision based on needs, according to housing experts.

The chief advantage of a basement is that it is one of the most inexpensive ways to provide more space in a house. Without a basement, such utilities as the boiler and domestic hot water heater must be located above ground. This, of course, makes it necessary to increase the area of the house. A part-basement, on the other hand, just large enough to accommodate the boiler, fuel storage and other necessary utilities, will save money. If the basement area is planned to occupy as much as one-half the area of the house, however, there is little saving over a full basement.

To utilize the space in a part-basement to the best advantage, builders recommend installation of the most compact equipment. For example, a hot water heating system allows the use of a compact boiler assembly in the basement. In contrast to the rather cumbersome furnace and bulky distribution ducts used with hot air heat, a hot water or steam boiler fits compactly into a corner of the basement, and the small distribution pipes take up virtually no space and allow maximum head room.

With a hot water or steam system, space conservation extends up into the house proper. Modern heating units, such as the new convective radiators for use on a hot water or steam system, can be recessed in walls completely out of the way. In spite of their compact size, convectors provide comfortable warmth. Room appearance is enhanced, too, for the actual heating element of the convective radiator is enclosed in a streamlined metal cabinet which can be decorated easily to blend or contrast with room decor.

For budgets which permit an above-ground utility room, the basementless house eliminates the necessity of running up and down stairs, and many women believe it adds to the comfort and convenience of modern living.

For a small utility room, building experts recommend installation of forced water or steam heating equipment. Convective radiators may be installed in this system, too, with excellent results.

In planning a part-basement, or small utility room, be sure to allow ample window area for liberal ventilation. This will minimize the danger of dampness, not unusual in part-basements and small utility rooms.

Bedroom Lavatory Proves Helpful

One of the most practical ways of providing additional washing facilities in many of the older homes is by the installation of a lavatory or wash basin in one or more of the bedrooms, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

Because fine vitreous china lavatories, with their lustrous finish, are fully as attractive as the best furniture, there is no reason from a decorative standpoint why a lavatory should not be in a bedroom. A well designed lavatory harmonizes with the finest surroundings.

Equipped with a wide ledge serving as a convenient shelf for cosmetics, a medicine cabinet with mirror and tubular shadowless fluorescent lighting, the lavatory in a bedroom serves the dual purpose of a wash basin and a dressing table. The bedroom lavatory helps to relieve pressure on the main bathroom.

In one home which was recently modernized, lavatories were installed in the corners of two adjoining bedrooms. A small bathroom was placed between the two bedrooms. There are two fixtures in the bathroom—a shower cabinet and a water closet. All four fixtures are closely grouped for piping economy.

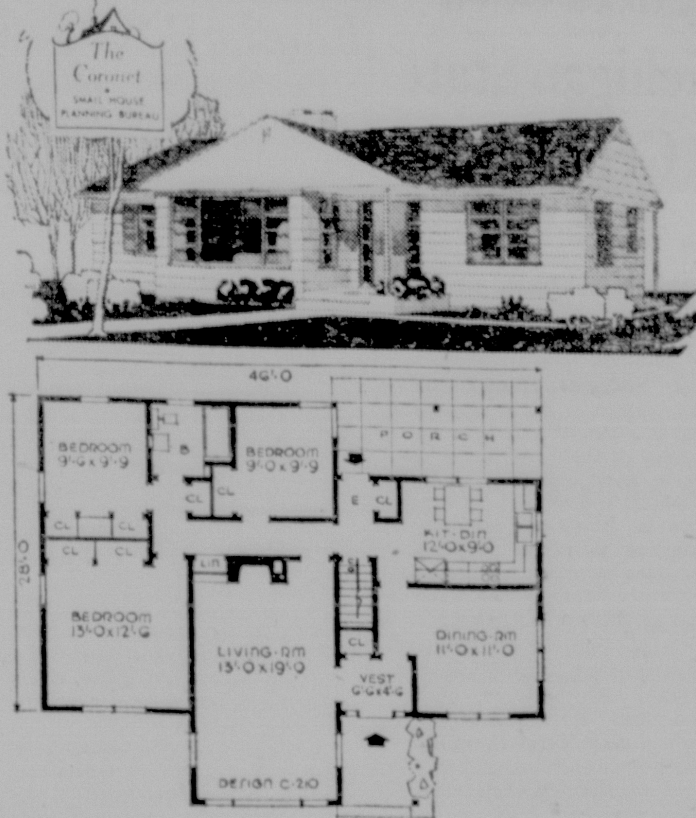

Front Hall Is Key To Taste

A properly furnished entrance hall reflects the hospitality of the hostess and her taste in decorating her house. There should be a closet in the hall where wraps may be placed, a flat surface where packages, letters, gloves and the like may be laid, and, if there's room, add a chair, too.

Even if the hall is small, one chair and small table with a mirror hung over it usually make a judiciously arranged. If it is larger use a larger chair, or two chairs, and a larger table. Fresh flowers brighten a hall, as they do any room.

Floor coverings should be those that are easy to clean, for, of course, the hall gets the heaviest traffic. Linoleum is one popular choice.

There were 627,751 telephones in North Carolina in 1952.

THE CORONET features a plan in which all rooms are corner rooms with the advantage of cross light and ventilation. There are three bedrooms, bath, a separate dining room, combination kitchen-dinette, living room and ten closets.

Closets include wardrobes in the bedrooms, coat closets at the entrances and linen and storage closets in the bedroom hall. Plans also show a covered front entrance, a rear porch overlooking the garden and a full basement. Other interesting features are the fireplace with shelves, picture window, pleasant kitchen arrangements and low exterior roof and wall lines.

The front gable is finished with plywood and the balance of the exterior features wide siding.

Dimensions are 46 feet by 28 feet with the living room extending forward another eight feet. Area is 1,280 square feet. Cubage totals 24,736 cubic feet.

Chemical Makes Steel Stainless

New York — A clever chemical trick is responsible for this era of gleaming kitchens, shiny automobiles and metal architecture.

Before the introduction of chrome steel, the housewife was plagued by knives, pots, and pans which quickly became discolored by food acids and rust. Although carefully painted to protect surfaces, steel used in construction often became unsightly through rust spots and pitting. The ally of man, which brought rust under control, is the metal chromium. At least 11½ per cent is present in the 30 or more stainless alloys of steel now in use. The very thing which makes plain steel and iron unsightly gives chromium its preserving property. By oxidizing—or "rusting"—first the chromium forms a tough, colorless, and transparent protective skin over the surface of the metal and prevents further oxidizing. To add to this

Best Pine Finish

A nice finish for a knotty pine paneled wall in a basement recreation room can be achieved by several liberal applications of a half and half mixture of raw linseed oil and turpentine. One hour after each application wipe off the excess oil on the surface. Repeat the application after 24 hours, and give a third if necessary.

helpful property, when scratched or rubbed away the protective "skin" immediately forms again.

Plan For Appliances In Advance

Although a family may not purchase at one time all the electrical equipment wanted, such as washer, ironer and similar units, considerable money will be saved if at the time of construction the house is adequately wired for possible future needs, say the Construction Research Bureau, New York clearing house for building information.

The future cost of the circuit for an automatic washer might be as much as $100 greater, due to the extra labor and redecorating expense.

Heavy-duty circuits are needed

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

When Joe Chase took over the starting quarterback duties for East Stroudsburg High against Morrisville last Friday, it marked the first time since his junior high school days that Paul "Candy" Miller had been unable to fill his game assignment. The regular quarterback for the Cavaliers was confined to the Monroe County General Hospital with a fractured neck at the time of the game. Miller may depart from the hospital in time to witness this Saturday's tussle with Wilson Borough, on the latter's home field.

Eddie Yost, third baseman for the Washington Senators, who visited Miller and Billy "Bump" Metzger, injured Stroudsburg High gridders, in the hospital last Saturday, is currently studying for his Master's degree at New York University. Ed doesn't expect to be traded to the New York Yankees this winter, despite many reports that he is on his way to the Stadium. Eddie was visiting cousins John and Ted Yost, East Stroudsburg, last weekend. Yost visited the injured football stars at the request of Father Michael Kennedy, St. Matthew's Church.

The fact that freshmen are no longer allowed to play on the East Stroudsburg Junior High School football team is undoubtedly one of the reasons that the youthful Cavaliers have lost both outings thus far this season. Marty Baldwin and Grant Nitrauer, both well known in athletic circles in Monroe County, were on hand last Saturday to see Penn State take the measure of Nebraska at State College. Margie Evermon, a graduate of Stroudsburg High School and now a sophomore at Columbia University, is a cheerleader at the New York school.

Bill Wilcox, junior varsity football coach at Stroudsburg High School, is to be complimented for making his Mountaineers give the winning East Stroudsburg junior varsity grid machine a cheer following Monday's game between the two schools. Cheers come mighty hard after a 6-6 defeat, but a team that cheers when defeated has plenty on the ball as far as good sportsmanship is concerned. The East Stroudsburg junior varsity, like the varsity, still maintains an undefeated record, having knocked off four foes thus far this season, as compared to five for the varsity.

Alfred J. Mauro, who shared a room at the General Hospital for a time with Paul "Candy" Miller, last Saturday gave the Youth Center a donation of $25. Mauro wanted to do a little something to continue the good cheer that had been present in his sick room, through the visits of the various high school students. Several members of the Lehigh Valley football team visited Miller over the weekend. Miller's injury occurred in a game with Lehigh.

Several members of the Stroudsburg High School football team are hopeful of being in the large crowd destined to watch the Penn-Penn State grid battle at Franklin Field, a week from this coming Saturday. Eddie Javitt, well known on the Monroe County athletic front, has been named business manager of Alliance College, located at Cambridge Springs, Pa., the school from which he graduated last June. Javitt is also a graduate of Stroudsburg High School.

Leonard "Chip" Wile, ace of the Berwick pitching staff in 1950, the final year of operation of the North Atlantic League, has been purchased by Columbus, O., of the "AAA" American Association, from the Columbus, Ga., entry in the South Atlantic League. Both clubs are farms for the St. Louis Cardinals. Joe Ossola, who began his pro career with Lebanon, also of the NAL, has been purchased by the same Columbus, O., club from Allentown. Prentice "Fridge" Browne, former first baseman-outfielder with Prekskell, another NAL club, has also been purchased by Columbus, O., from Hamilton, of the class "D" Pony League.

Columbus, of the American Association, also sent Tom Keating and Doug Clark, members of the Prekskell and Lebanon clubs, when the North Atlantic League was still in operation, to Columbus, of the South Atlantic League. Ed Varhely, a 20 game winner with the Stroudsburg Poconos in 1949, is back in the Texas League, this time with Tulsa, after having been sold by Indianapolis, of the American Association. Indianapolis recently had purchased the left-handed tosser from Dallas, also of the Texas League.

Ben Cardoni, right-handed pitcher who managed the Hazleton entry in the North Atlantic League for a portion of the 1949 season, was recently purchased by Louisville, of the "AAA" American Association, from Albany of the class "A" Eastern League. The veteran hurler had an outstanding season with the Albany club in the campaign just completed. Paul "Thunder" McGovern, former basketball star at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, is reportedly doing very well in the insurance business in Carbondale.

Stroudsburg Returns To Hard Work For Whitehall

Cavaliers In Preparation For Wilson

Stroudsburg High has returned to some serious football practice after a week of light drills and conditioning exercises, as the Mountaineers prepare for Saturday's tussle with a strong Whitehall High squad, at Whitehall. The kickoff is scheduled for 2 p.m.

Coach Jerry Stulgaitis sent his charges through a series of light drills last week, due to the fact that the Mountaineers weren't scheduled to play last weekend.

However, Stulgaitis returned his gridders to hard workouts yesterday, capped off by a scrimmage of 10 minutes, after the squad enjoyed a day free of practice on Monday.

Carl Hagerty is the only member of the Stroudsburg team on the injured list at the present time. Hagerty injured an ankle in the Penn Argyt contest, almost two weeks ago, and reinjured the limp during yesterday's drill.

Hagerty's status remains in doubt as far as Saturday's battle with Whitehall is concerned. Benny Miller, out with a shoulder injury for two weeks, has been converted from a lineman into a right halfback and will divide that position with Jack Whittle on Saturday. The remainder of the Stroudsburg lineup will be intact for the Whitehall clash.

Whitehall, a team that lost only one regular from last year's squad, is undefeated in Lehigh Valley League play and recently held powerful Northampton to a 14-14 deadlock.

The Zephyrs are a highly polished team that runs out of the single wing, double wing, "T", split-T and about four variations of the spread formation.

Major Contest
East Stroudsburg High on the other hand is working hard for its all-important battle with Wilson Borough on Saturday, at Wilson. The Cavaliers will put their record of five wins and no defeats on the line against Wilson, a powerful contingent that is also undefeated in Lehigh-Northampton League play.

East Stroudsburg will be bolstered by the return of Don Herman, a strong defensive end, who missed the Morrisville game because of an injured wrist.

The Cavaliers are expected to be at full strength for Wilson, except for regular quarterback Paul "Candy" Miller, who is a patient at the Monroe County General Hospital.

Wilson Borough is also expected to be at full strength for the invasion of the East Stroudsburg squad, due to the fact that the blue and gold clad grid machine enjoyed an open date on its schedule last weekend.

A victory for either E. Stroudsburg or Wilson Borough would put one or the other of the teams in a fine position from which to challenge for the Lehigh-Northampton League championship.

Opening Day Slate Announced

Chicago (AP)—The 1953 American League baseball season will open Monday, April 13, with the traditional solo inaugural at Washington and close Sunday, September 27.

President Will Harridge yesterday disclosed the junior circuit's opening slate.

Opening Day
After the New York Yankees and Washington Senators bow in at Washington April 13, the league's full opening round follows the next day with Detroit at St. Louis, Chicago at Cleveland, Philadelphia at New York and Washington at Boston.

Eastern Circuit To Increase Games

New York (AP)—The Class "A" Eastern Baseball League yesterday tentatively adopted a 154-game schedule for the first time in its 30-year history.

Proposition
President Thomas H. Richardson, in a meeting at the Hotel New Yorker with the league's board of directors, proposed the change as a result of the loss of 72,000 paid admissions last season. Heretofore, the schedule included 140 contests for each of the eight clubs.

Crowe's Insurance Leads Pack

Crowe's Insurance has shot to the front of the field in the Delaware Valley Bowling League, after winning three points from Dainty Potato Chips, the previous leader, last Saturday.

The East Stroudsburg squad has won 14 points thus far this season and dropped six, while second place Dainty Potato Chips has 13 points in the won column and seven in the lost.

Duggan and Maroon and the Phillipsburg Elks are currently deadlocked for third place, with 11 markers in the won column and nine in the lost division.

Standings follow:

Club	W	L
Crowe's Insurance	14	6
Dainty Potato Chips	13	7
Duggan & Maroon	11	9
Phillipsburg Elks	11	9
Class Club	10	10
Riegel Ridge	10	10
Capote Office Service	8	12
Headerson Trucking	7	13

Martz On Injured List At ESSTC

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College completed its second day of preparation for Friday's battle with powerful West Chester State Teachers College yesterday, and five injuries were present on the Red and Black roster.

The Warriors are gravely concerned over the condition of their outstanding defensive halfbacks, namely Charley Shaw and Art Schaefer, both limited to very light workouts because of knee injuries.

Coach Gene Martin also announced last night that Martin "Ducky" Martz, former star gridder for East Stroudsburg High School, suffered a bruised back in last Saturday's 14-12 victory over Mansfield and was given the day off from practice yesterday.

Light Work
Don Toth is also working off lightly this week, due to a head injury inflicted in the Mansfield contest.

Coach Martin also stated that Don Starnier, veteran back who suffered a knee injury in the Shippenburg contest, wouldn't make the trip to West Chester on Friday.

West Chester again features one of the strongest collegiate grid machines in Pennsylvania. The Rams rolled over Lock Haven last Friday, 74-6, and lead the Pennsylvania State Teachers College Conference at the present time.

The kickoff is listed for 8 p.m.

Tickets To Be Sold

Bartonsville — Tickets for the annual Pocono Mountains Baseball League banquet will be made available in the very near future and may be purchased from the various team managers for $2 per ticket. The banquet will be held at the Bartonsville Hotel on Tuesday, November 18, at 7:30 p.m.

Senior Loop Lists Schedule

Cincinnati (AP)—The National League's schedule committee yesterday announced 1953 opening day pairings and said next year's All-Star game would be held July 14 in Braves Field at Boston.

The last time the All-Star game was played in Braves Field was in 1936—when the National League scored their first victory in the series 4 to 3.

Tradition

In keeping with tradition that Cincinnati always opens the season at home, the Reds will meet Pittsburgh here on April 13, a day ahead of the other senior league openers.

The April 14 games will have Boston at Brooklyn, New York at Philadelphia, St. Louis at Pittsburgh and Cincinnati at Chicago.

East Stroudsburg Teachers Host To Trenton In Soccer

Coach Howard DeNike will send his East Stroudsburg State Teachers College soccer contingent in search of its second victory without a defeat this season, when the Warriors play host to a highly regarded Trenton State Teachers College band of booters today, on the Normal Hill field. The contest is scheduled to get under way at 3 p.m.

Cage League May Fold Due To Dispute

New York (AP)—The controversy over whether to accept players involved in the college fix scandals threatened yesterday to break up the American Professional Basketball League.

John J. O'Brien, president of the circuit, said he is opposed to admitting the players. He has hinted he will quit his office if the league takes such action at its meeting tomorrow.

Some members of the league are reported in favor of opening the door to the players, already banished by the larger National Basketball Association and two teams have gone so far as to sign some of the talent.

Players

Elmira has signed Bill Spivey, the former All-American at the University of Kentucky, Jersey City, bidding for a franchise in the circuit, has signed Alex Groza and Ralph Beard, former Kentucky players who helped form the Indianapolis Olympians in the NBA, and Sherman White, formerly with Long Island University.

O'Brien's office yesterday listed league members as Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, Bridgeport, Elmira and Saratoga. Paterson and Jersey City, N. J., are listed as "indefinite."

Harl Robacher, president of the Elmira Colonels, has said he expects the league to sanction use of the players.

Figures Back Michigan State As Grid Power

By Rip Watson

New York (AP)—Cold figures proved yesterday what Michigan State's opponents have been saying all along—that the Spartans have the hottest attacking team in the country.

Coach "Biggie" Munn's three-pleat system of backs ripped off 477 yards rushing and passing in the course of their 48-7 romp over Syracuse last Saturday, making their season's average per game 460.8 yards. If it's any comfort to the crushed Syracuse supporters, last Saturday's effort was sub par for Michigan State, which had an average of 465.3 a week ago.

The major college statistics, released yesterday by the NCAA service bureau, also shattered the impression that Michigan State is good for a first down every time they line up to run a play. The monsters of the midwest, on the contrary, are averaging a mere 6.51 yards on every play.

Balanced Offense

They do it with a balanced offense, too, Michigan State is seventh in rushing average with 272.3 and eighth in passing with 188.5. No other team is in the top ten in both departments.

California, like Michigan State unbeaten and untied, is the nation's powerhouse in rushing with a figure of 342.1 yards per game, while Fordham, which has yet to win a game, heads the passing parade with an average of 293 yards per game in two contests.

Fordham's average is remarkable in that only two other schools are over 200 yards per game—Illinois with 211.8 and Ohio State with 201. The Buckeyes reached that figure after gaining 375 yards a single game high for the year—against Washington State. Eighteen completions in 21 attempts gave them a season accuracy percentage of 61.3, trailing only Princeton and Pittsburgh (both 62) in this respect.

Oklahoma, which ranks sixth in total offense with 416.5, is first in the important matter of converting yards into points with an average of 40.3 per game. Small wonder, too, with a 44-20 victory over Kansas after two straight 49-20 romps.

Virginia, however, is even better at making up impressive yardage totals. The undefeated Volunteers aren't in the first 10 in passing or rushing, but they're second in points with 38, followed by California (35.8) and Michigan State (35).

Mower Loop In Action

Members of the Worthington Mower League are listed to roll on the George N. Kemp American Legion Post alleys today, at 7 p.m. Schedule follows:

Alleys one and two—Dodos vs Snipes.
Alleys three and four—Loons vs Mudhens.

California To Be Center Of Football Stage This Week

Los Angeles (AP)—The California-Southern California football game here Saturday, one of the best on the nation's schedule, seems well established as a continuation of a crusade—and a feud.

It also figures to be a vital test of California's powerful offense and the Trojans' rugged defense.

Early odds circulated yesterday made the Golden Bears from Berkeley a slim six-point favorite in a contest expected to attract 90,000 fans to Memorial Coliseum.

Unbeaten

The two teams are unbeaten and untied in five games apiece. Both are candidates for the Rose Bowl as the Coast Conference representative.

The struggle has been shaping up as a decisive contest all fall; indeed, since a year ago when the then still undefeated rivals collided at Berkeley and the Trojans won, 21-14.

That was the game when Cal's great fullback, Johnny Olszewski, was injured and sidelined in the first half and the California supporters levelled accusations of unnecessary belligerence at the socking Trojans.

The aftermath of that game is still a sore spot for both teams. Well, Olszewski, a young man who has battered out 536 yards net in the 81 times he's carried the ball this season and is the leading ground gainer in the conference, is back.

Gone from Southern Cal is Pat Cannamela, the linebacker who drew the California ire for the tackle that put Johnny-O out of action.

Back Again

But again on deck is 216-pound Elmer Willhoite, a tremendous defensive guard. With him are such stout defenders as tackle Bob Van Doren and two ends, Bob Hooks and Bill Hattig.

California's mentor, Lynn O. Waldorf, is well known as no slouch of a teacher of defense. Perhaps "Pappy" hasn't had to worry too much about defense, with his Bears scoring 179 points to 54. But the team rates third to USC and UCLA in overall defense.

Warriorettes Go In Search Of Second Field Hockey Victory

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will seek its second field hockey victory in as many outings today, when the Warriorettes tangle with Panzer College, at East Orange, N. J. The game is scheduled to get under way at 3:30 p.m.

The Warriorettes opened their present campaign with an 8-1 victory over a highly regarded Ursinus College squad.

Same Talent

Coach Katherine Griffith is expected to stick with the same lineup that opened the Ursinus battle.

Eagles Ask Waivers

Philadelphia (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles of the National Professional Football League have asked waivers on Clyde Scott, 175-pound halfback, a team spokesman announced yesterday.

Flavor... Flavor... Flavor that chill can't kill...

Here's beer that holds its fine flavor even when served ice-cold.

Ballantine Beer is deep-brewed for flavor!

Whatever the weather, what's as refreshing as cold beer's quenching flavor?

Ballantine Beer is deep-brewed for flavor. For lightness, yes! For dryness, of course!

But first, last, and always, Ballantine brews for flavor... the fine, full flavor that chill can't kill!

Serve Ballantine Beer right off the ice. Every well-chilled glass just brims with flavor!

All-weather chill range

Surveys show that people like their beer cold—from 35° to 42°—all year round.

Ballantine Beer is deep-brewed to hold its flavor at whatever temperature you like best.

Sliffer, Barnes Tie in Contest

Mrs. Tom Sliffer, 508 Brown St., Stroudsburg, and Kenneth Barnes, Delaware Water Gap, came through with glittering forecasts with each correctly naming 23 victorious football teams from a 26-game list to lead all contestants for the week ending last Saturday.

Split Money
 These two will split prize money of $15 representing the total amount of first and second prizes in the football contest which is a weekly feature of The Daily Record, published through the cooperation of 26 local business firms.

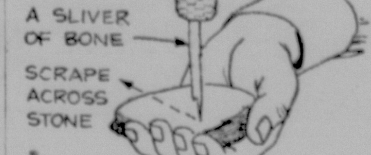

West Chester Takes Over Top Spot In Grid Conference Race

Johnstown, (AP)—West Chester won its first league game over the weekend and immediately jumped into first place in the Pennsylvania State Teachers College Athletic Football Conference.

The victory was an authoritative 74-6 trouncing of Lock Haven, which until that time had been leading the conference with two wins and no defeats.

Weights
 Allen weighed 111½ and Marsden 110½.

Allen Wins British Flyweight Crown

London, (AP)—Terry Allen of London, former world flyweight champion, won the vacant British flyweight title at Harringay Arena last night by scoring a technical knockout in the sixth round over Eric Marsden of Lancashire.

Allen weighed 111½ and Marsden 110½.

Turpin Wins Empire Title By Decision

London, (AP)—Britain's Randolph Turpin won the Empire middleweight championship at Harringay Arena last night, outpointing George Angelo of South Africa by a wide margin in a dreary 15-round bout.

The title became vacant when Dave Sands of Australia, the holder, was killed in a truck crash.

Four Titles
 Turpin now holds four championships. He is British middle and light heavyweight titleholder and European middleweight champion. He formerly was world middleweight champion.

Turpin, superbly fit, did not show up at his best against the backpeddling Angelo who has wonderful defensive boxing skill but no punch.
 Turpin weighed 158½, Angelo 157½.

Marciano To Be Honored

New York, (AP)—"Rocky" Marciano, new heavyweight champion, will receive the Ring Magazine title belt from Nat Fleischer October 31 at a luncheon meeting of the New York Boxing Writers Association.

Date Fixed To Instruct Poll Officials

The session at which election officials will be taught operation of voting machines was set yesterday for next Tuesday.

Arrangements followed a conference between Harry Taylor, chief clerk, John Wolfe, Canadensis, representative of the Automatic Voting Machine Co., and Roy Anderson, a factory expert sent down from the firm's Jamestown, N.Y., plant.

To date, letters have gone out from the commissioners' office to all election judges and majority and minority inspectors.

The commissioners' office said it also plans to contact district constables so that at most polling places there will be four persons present on election day, or at least available, who will understand and can explain how to use the voting machine.

The instruction and demonstration session next Tuesday will be held in the courthouse corridor at 7 p.m.

In the meantime, Anderson plans to visit the places where the machines are stored, service them and prepare them for use Nov. 4.

There are 83,840 acres of lakes in New Mexico.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

County School Board Names Five Delegates

A meeting of the Monroe County School Board was held at the office of John C. Litts, county superintendent of schools, and Walter H. Sebring, assistant, yesterday morning when plans were made for the annual meeting of the Monroe County School Directors Assn.

The convention will be held in the main courtroom of the courthouse Wednesday, Nov. 19, at 8:15 p.m. T. B. Cortright, East Stroudsburg RD, president of the county board, will preside.

The following were named as delegates to represent the county board at the convention: Willard Stettler, Smithfield Twp.; Mrs. Verna Kohn, Mount Pocono; Mrs. Selma Greenamoyer, Ross Twp.; John Schimmel, Stroud Twp., and Arlington Smith, Eldred Twp.

A tentative set of resolutions was prepared at the meeting, copies of which will be sent to all school directors of Monroe County for their consideration, make changes and also to submit others at the convention, if desired on their part.

Announcement was made that two guest speakers will be heard. One of them is Preston O. Vanness, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania State School Directors Assn., who will speak on "Looking Ahead for 1953 Legislation"; the other is Norman K. Seiple, former supervising principal of the Pocono Twp. High School, now president of the county board of Delaware County. His subject will be "Duties and Responsibilities of School Directors."

There was also a general discussion of the new contract of Veterans Agricultural Training program which is now being carried on.

School Principals Convene Today

A meeting of the principals of the high schools included in the Lehigh-Northampton Athletic Assn. will be held this afternoon at the Pen Argyl High School with Allen Jackson, principal, as host.

The objective of meetings is to discuss professional problems which they face in their school work. Ralph O. Burrows, principal of East Stroudsburg High School and Theodore Miller, principal of the East Stroudsburg Junior High, will attend.

The guests will be entertained at dinner preceding the meeting prepared and served by the home economics department of the school.

Temple Israel Choir To Meet

First meeting of the Temple Israel choir this season will be at the home of Rabbi Maurice Idell, 279 Broadhead Ave., at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Anyone interested in joining the choir is invited.

Regular Sunday school classes will begin at 10 a.m. Sunday. Children were urged to report at that time. A movie will be shown.

Bond To Be Presented To Miss Bonser

A $500 bond will be awarded Thursday to the Broadheadville farm girl who said "When one lives freedom, he learns to love it..."

She is Myrtle Bonser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bonser, who won first prize in a State-wide Pennsylvania Week essay contest.

Nelson Saxe, a Coolbaugh Township High School student, won a $50 bond as one of the 10 winners in the State competition, giving Monroe County two of the top ten prizes.

The bond presentation to Miss Bonser will be made at a special assembly at 2:30 p.m. Thursday at Chestnut Hill High School, where she is a senior student.

The public is invited to attend the assembly. The high school band, under direction of David Weber, will play.

Miss Bonser's essay will be read aloud to the group.

Ernest Wyckoff, of Wyckoff-Sears, Stroudsburg, will make the presentation of the bond to the young essayist.

He is head of the Wyckoff Department Store and a member of the Pennsylvania Retailers Association, which sponsored the contest.

John Mills, supervising principal of the high school, will be in charge of the assembly.

Portland PTA Plans Parade For Children

Portland — Parent Teacher Association of this borough will sponsor a Halloween parade next Tuesday beginning at 1:15 p.m.

Pupils will start from the school, march to State St., then to the bank corner, up Delaware Ave. to the Portland House, up Main St. and to the school auditorium. Costumes will be judged. Prize awards will consist of four presentations, one each for the prettiest, funniest, ugliest and most original. Refreshments will be served after judging.

Judges will be selected from Upper Mt. Bethel, and Portland. Committee arranging for the event is comprised of Mrs. Ernest Karcher, Mrs. William Houck, Mrs. Henry Pritchard, Mrs. Walter Emery, Mrs. Augustus Garis and Mrs. Woodrow Reimer.

Window Art Contest To Be Conducted

Portland — Merchants of this borough will sponsor a window painting contest in keeping with Halloween, it was learned yesterday.

Pupils of Portland Public School who are eligible to compete, have been instructed to register with their teacher or Ernest Courtney, principal, before Wednesday, Oct. 22. Contestants will work after school and must complete their paintings by Wednesday Oct. 29. Judging will occur on Halloween, Oct. 31. Prizes will be awarded at the school Monday, Nov. 3.

Store windows on the right side of Delaware Ave. from Wildricks to Ducklock Bros. on State St. will serve as canvases for the youthful painters.

The work is being supervised by the Portland teachers and the Halloween parade committee of the Parent Teacher Association.

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1952
March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Ask opinions of those who know. Apply good original ideas, possibly combine both for top gains. Stars favor plan.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Big and little unusual and routine matters all deserve closer attention. Don't be caught napping or underestimating values. But don't rush.

June 21 to July 20 (Cancer) — Pure thought is worth exercising now. Stars indicate only those who deserve will achieve. You have opportunity ahead but must work extra hard.

July 21 to August 20 (Leo) — Don't sidestep problems, rather step into them, be on the right offensive for better results now. Luck can be seized in smart, decisive moves. Avoid contention.

August 21 to September 20 (Virgo) — Mark well how things shape up before acting. Caution in procedure, common sense, best formula. Be able to relax, too.

September 21 to October 20 (Libra) — Fine ideas, pleasant prospects. External thoughts of improving not only your business but also your personal affairs. Adherence to family requirements most important.

780 Attending State PTA Conference

Pocono Manor—Making family life more fun and showing trust in your own competence in raising your children will iron out many of the "kinks" in modern life, Dr. O. Spurgeon English, M.D., of Temple University and state PTA chairman of mental hygiene, last night told the members attending the Pennsylvania Congress of Parents at Pocono Manor.

The second day saw 780 delegates registered for the conference with morning and afternoon workshops dominating the day's program. Dr. English spoke after the dinner, which was marked by the PTA state chorus recital.

Using the theme, "Youth Looks Ahead," Dr. English forecast a busy exciting world with much work to do against war, disease, poverty and social friction which would demand of young people increasing mental powers, and which threatened more psychological problems.

Since young people can look ahead only through the eyes of their parents and teachers, these are the ones who will mold their viewpoint for good or ill, he said. While most things have speeded up, the process of growth is just as slow, he said, and parents would do well to appreciate the importance of early impressions. In the first years of his life a child can gain confidence, a sense of his own importance, and his need to be helpful to others, he said.

The PTA through its educational program is helping to train parents in their relationships with their children, he said, and modern parents should be confident of their competence in child rearing. More family fun and less worry, more trust in the teen-agers you yourselves have trained will lead to a pleasanter family relationship, he said.

Parents, too, should be more articulate about the importance of service to others, and provide an atmosphere where positive mental health would give young people a healthier, more poised and thoughtful outlook on tomorrow, he concluded.

His talk was followed by a panel discussion in which four high school students from Scranton discussed with Dr. Addison E. Pohle, state chairman of citizenship, ways in which parents and teachers could help them develop more altruistic and active attitudes toward citizenship.

Dr. J. William Frey, of Franklin and Marshall College, spoke on Pennsylvania Dutch folklore and folk songs as the concluding speech.

Today's program will include a morning talk by Charlotte E. Grave on cerebral palsy, workshop sessions, and a business meeting in the afternoon.

During the morning business session yesterday Mrs. Frank Davis of Lewisburg was nominated as state vice president of District 2; K. J. Travis, Altoona, District 3; and Dale Houk, Slippery Rock, District 4.

New way to lighten hair!
Helena Rubinstein discovers

BLONDE BEAUTY

Revolutionary new home hair lightener changes drab hair to exciting hair — in minutes!

After years of research, Helena Rubinstein discovers a sensational new method of lightening hair — BLONDE BEAUTY... the first home hair lightener that lightens and colors in one application.

Easy to use... good for hair

Even women who have never before used a hair cosmetic find it easy to apply BLONDE BEAUTY. One application lightens hair 1 to 3 shades lighter. If you want to be still blonder, BLONDE BEAUTY can be applied again immediately after hair is rinsed and dried. For BLONDE BEAUTY contains no harsh alkalis or ammonia. Only precious conditioning oils that protect your hair... leave it softer, more lustrous!

2 shades to choose from

BLONDE BEAUTY comes in two shades... "Golden Shade" (strawberry blonde)... and "Ash Blonde Shade" (silvery-tone blonde). Complete instructions with every box. 2.00 plus tax
